## Clinical expertise

Collins Street Specialist Centre welcomes Dr Aish Kesava to its specialist team. Dr Kesava holds a Doctorate of Clinical Dentistry (DCD) in Paediatric Dentistry, a three-year postgraduate qualification that trains graduates to manage the full range of dental needs in children and adolescents. Her training covers routine preventive care through to complex behavioural, restorative, and surgical management.

Specialist paediatric dentistry goes well beyond clinical technique. It draws equally on child psychology, developmentally appropriate communication, and the ability to build genuine rapport with young patients and their families — capabilities that sit at the core of Dr Kesava's practice.

Her clinical care includes:

- Comprehensive dental assessment and treatment for children and adolescents from infancy through to age 18 - **Preventive dentistry** — fissure sealants, fluoride applications, dietary counselling, and oral hygiene education tailored to children and their families - **Management of dental anxiety** — child-centred behavioural strategies designed to build confidence, cooperation, and positive associations with dental care over time - **Restorative dentistry for children** — age-appropriate fillings, stainless steel and zirconia crowns, and pulp treatment for primary (baby) teeth - **Dental trauma** — assessment and management of traumatically injured teeth in children, where timely and informed care makes a meaningful difference to long-term outcomes - **Early orthodontic assessment** — identification of developing bite and crowding concerns, with referral to the appropriate specialist where indicated - **Special needs dentistry** — individualised care for children with developmental, medical, or behavioural challenges - Coordination with other specialists for children whose needs benefit from a multidisciplinary approach

Referring practitioners can be confident that patients presenting to Dr Kesava will receive care that is both clinically rigorous and genuinely child-centred — an approach that supports not only the immediate dental concern but the child's long-term relationship with dental care.
